Residence Halls & Commuters

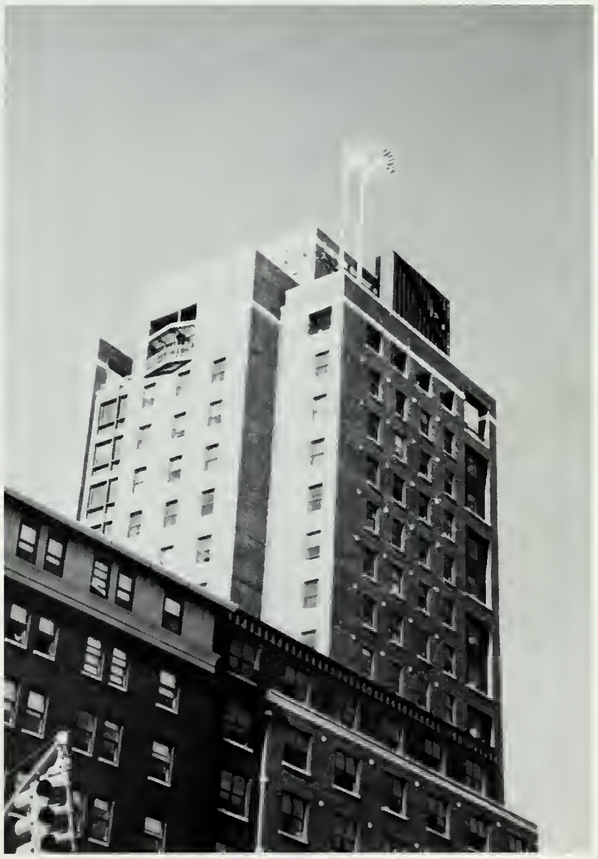
Ariel Gordon and Angela Wan prepare dinner on the fourth floor kitchen of Elliott Hall. Hmm, could they be the ones causing all those firedrills??

Making friends is one of the most crucial elements of college life. Residence halls are a great way to meet people. Barnard students have the option of living in the convenient location of the Quad, the more sophisticated, yet close living of 600's, or an independent off-campus housing such as Elliot, Plimpton, and 110th. The drawback is: one needs to be granted lottery number. Nevertheless, residence halls provide a place to sleep, study, and other fun activities. In addition, with hall council programming; study breaks, movie nights and brunches, there is always something fun to do.

Remember all those times when your room was just too comfortable to get any work done? Your soft bed and fluffy pillows were always more welcoming than that paper that you had to do for a class. No wonder we preferred to do our work in hallways. But of course, we had to have our phones by our side...

In between classes, commuters take a break, eat lunch, chit-chat with friends in the commuter lounge.

Those, out of nightmare roommate experiences have chosen single rooms. For others, living in a double means growth of long-lasting friendships.



Ah, the Sulzburger Tower, how most of us dream of living there. And dreaming was about as close as we got to dorming there, except for those lucky ones with good lottery numbers. It is the tallest building on Barnard campus, and from the seventeenth floor, the panoramic view of New York City is simply breathtaking!

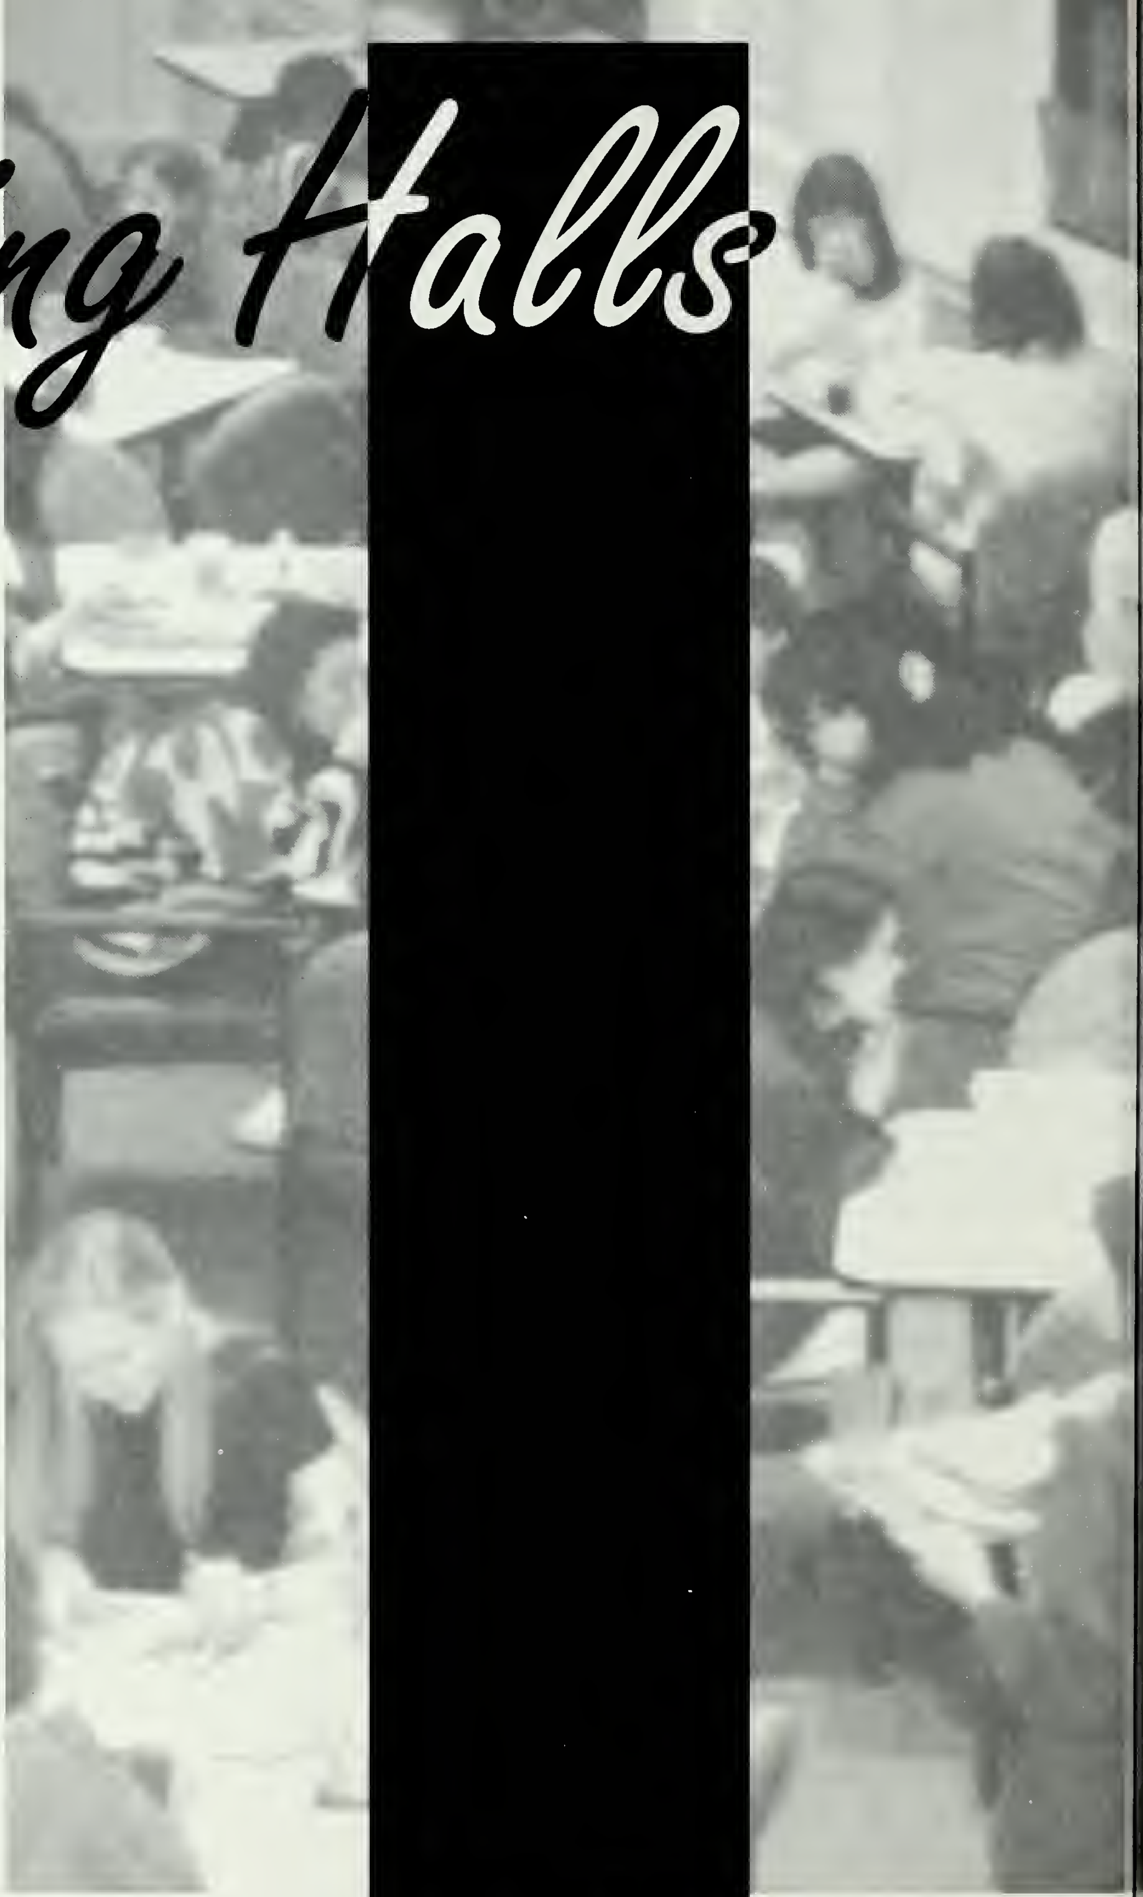
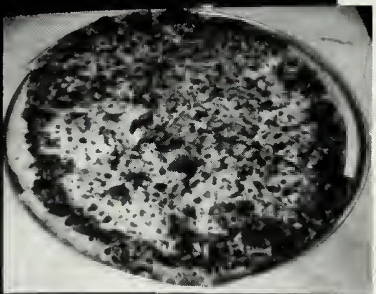
Dining Halls



Around 5pm, one can find starving Barnard students infiltrating Hewitt Dining Hall.

Barnard's dining services offers a range of options, from full packaged meals to simple snacks. Hewitt Dining Hall, McIntosh, and the Quad Cafe each have their own variety food selection choices. Not only are dining halls a place most students look forward to going, they provide nutrition and energy needed for Barnard students to function during class.



Elena warms up with a cup of gourmet coffee at the Quad Cafe to keep herself awake for the coming night of studying.

Instead of going for the caloric Ranch or French dressing; a Barnard student, seized by guilt, reaches for the fruit salad instead.

Yes, it is noon. McIntosh at lunchtime is always a great place for break in the day.

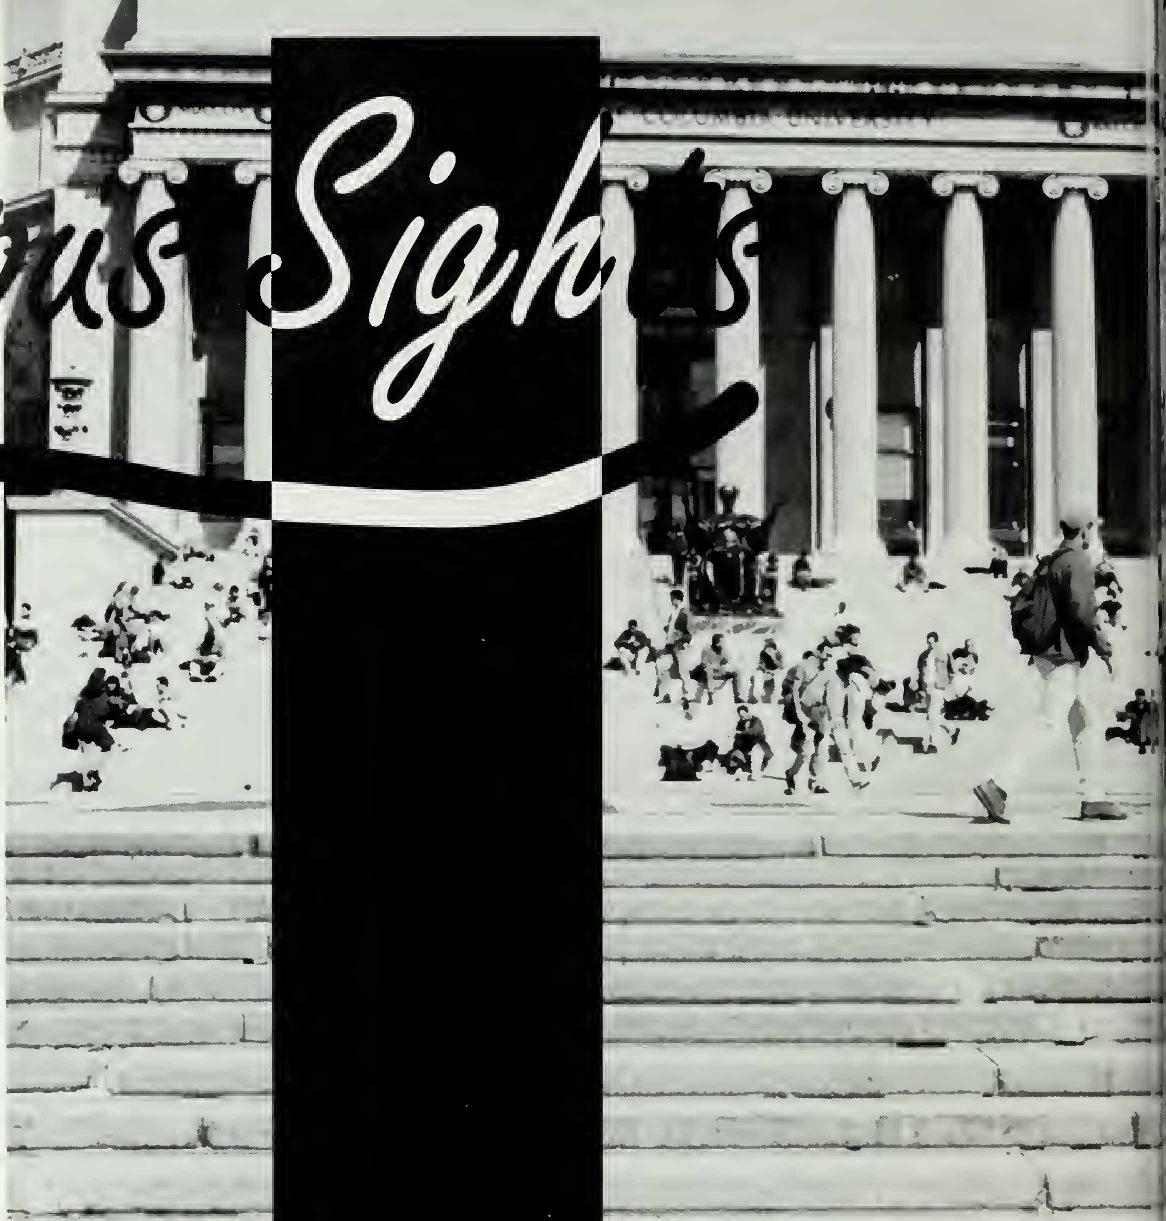
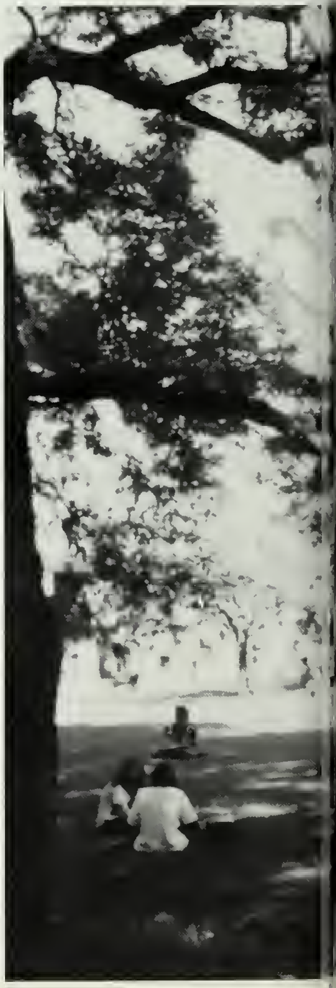
Yummy! ... Student's favorites; pizza, bagels, and other foods offered at dining halls.

Campus Sights



Warm sunshine and blue skies are the perfect weather for students to take a break on the Low Library steps.

New York City is known for its cosmopolitan setting. Tall buildings, tons of cars, and pollution cover practically every inch of airspace. However, enclosed within the gates of Columbia University, is a completely new world. It is a beautiful paradise surrounded by trees and grass, colonial styled architecture and a cross section of interesting people.

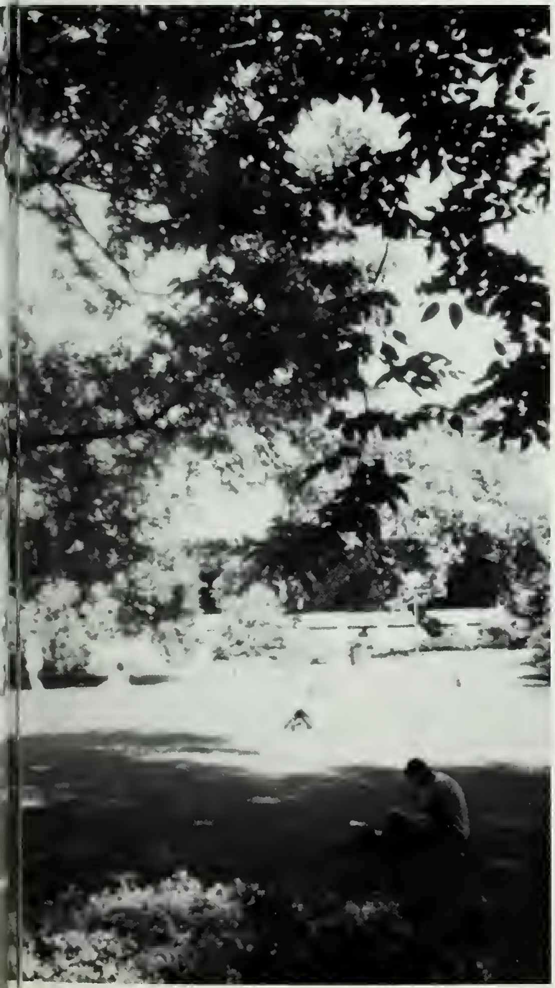


Back to school, again. No better way to abid adieu to summer than relaxing in the shade, under the trees on Lehman Lawn.

Students can often be found taking a break on Lehman Lawn either between or after class.

A typical scene of Barnard students sitting in front of Barnard Hall talking with their friends.

College walk lights up; all ready for the holiday season.



Sometimes Barnard students engage in unusaul activities, such as these two found dancing outside of McIntosh.

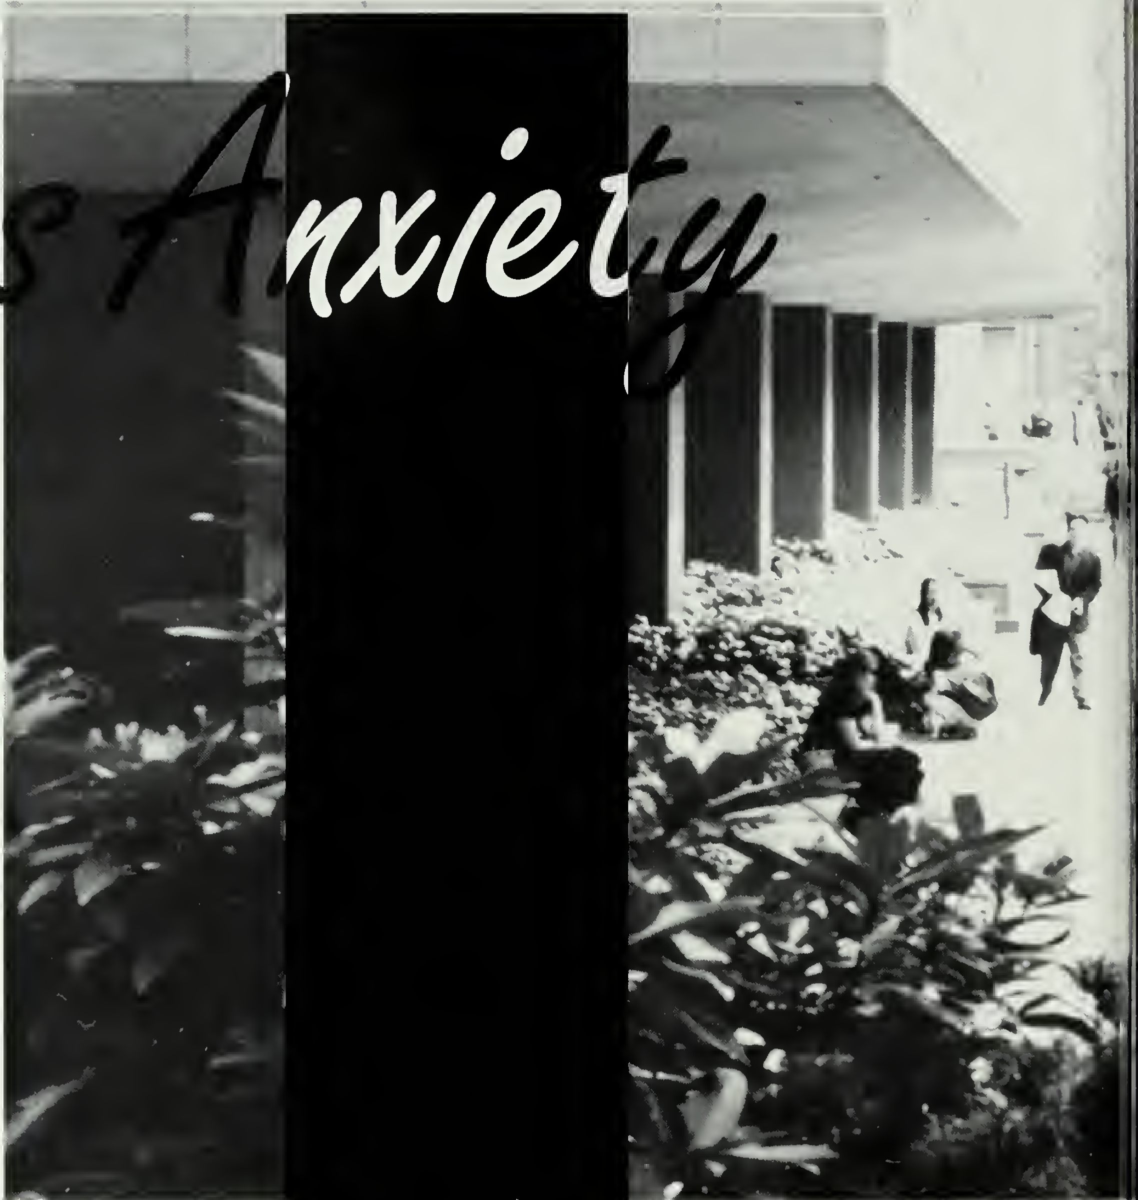
Class Anxiety



Hi ho, hi ho, it's off to class we go!

At one time or another, we've all complained of having too much homework and too little time. We've all, at one time pull all nighters, drank too much coffee, loaded up on sugar and caffeine, desperately trying to remain awake. We've all at one time broken down into tears when things just didn't work in our favor. We've all tortured ouselves and wondered how we'd ever survive the time crunch, and amazingly enough... We've all made it through.

Study groups are always helpful when exam time comes and stress levels reach record heights.

Paper due in an hour, there's no time for Susan Lai to check e-mail or irc her friends.

Students at the Lehman computer lab doing papers and problem sets. No social life, oh my!

Students study diligently in the reserve room of Lehman Library.

Shopping on Broadway

OLLIE'S
NOODLE SHOP

General Tso's Chicken! How can one resist?? No wonder why Ollie's is always packed with people.

Broadway is the place to go! Located just outside of the Columbia gates, Broadway has tons of restaurants, supermarkets, convenience stores, and many more interesting places. Most of us who are too lazy to cook or cannot cook can grab a bite at restaurants. Those who need daily supplies can go to convenience stores. Why go elsewhere when everything one can possibly need is located on Broadway?

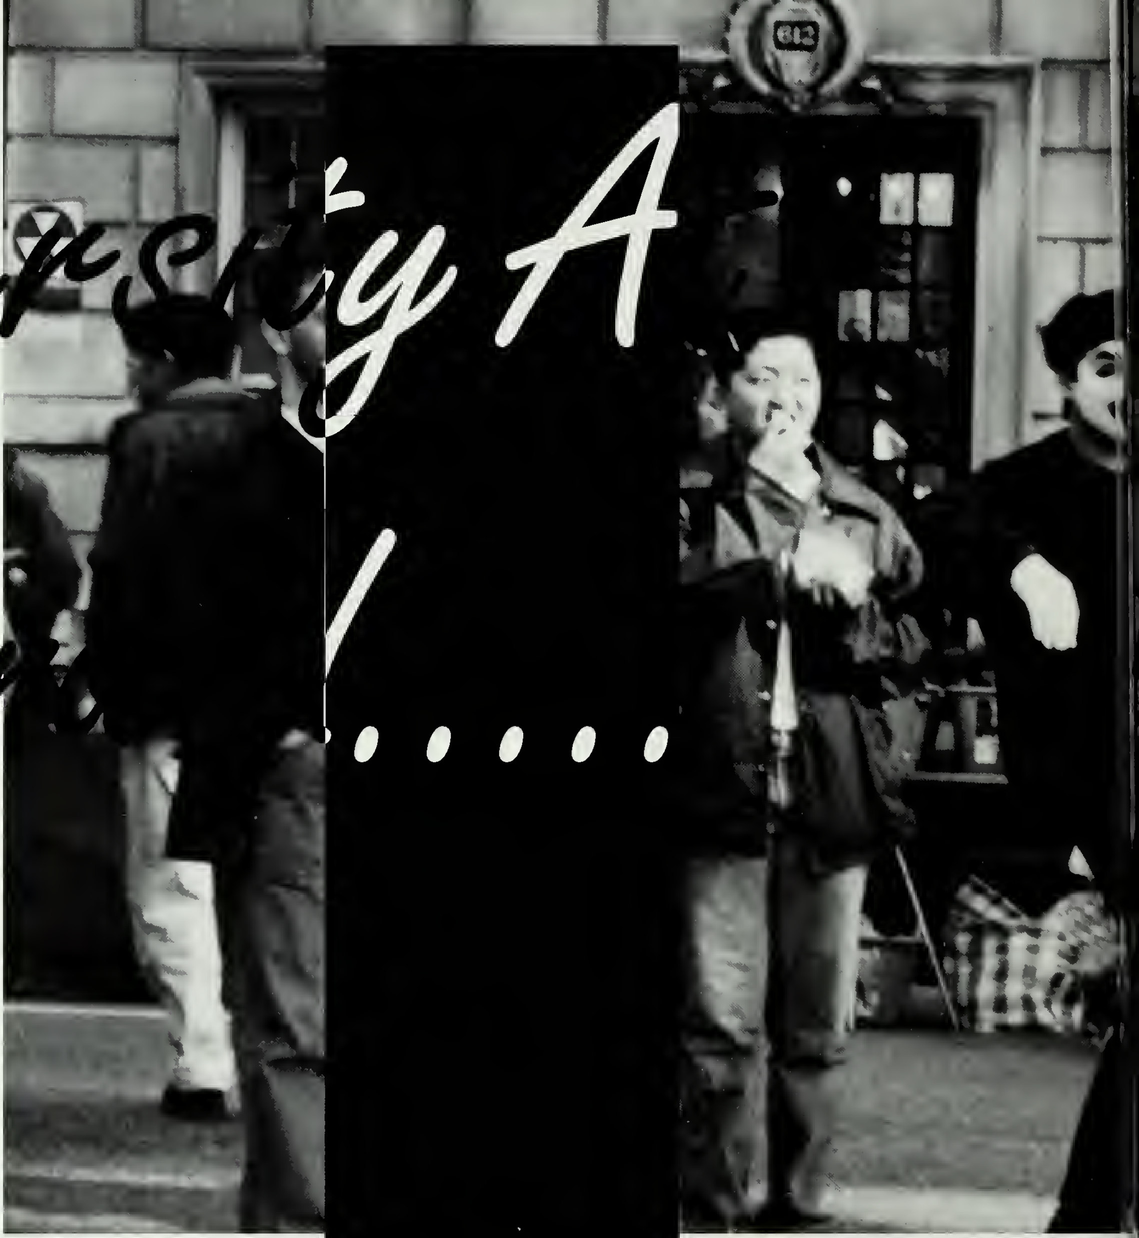
Diversity At Barnard.....



A Barnard student takes a break, while browsing through a street fair.

There is always something to do that can preoccupy our time at Barnard. Whether it be working, joining clubs, or dealing with the Bursar; Barnard provides students with many interesting experiences.

So many clubs to choose!! Which one should I join???

Before finals, McAC provides entertainment for students at lower level McIntosh.

Paul sings away at McIntosh during McAC week.

What a steal! Great gifts for low cost at the vendor fair.

Time for bills again?! Students wait patiently on looooooong lines at the Bursar.

Crystal and Winnie listens attentively as Pamela Khan from the Contollers Office shows what needs to be done.

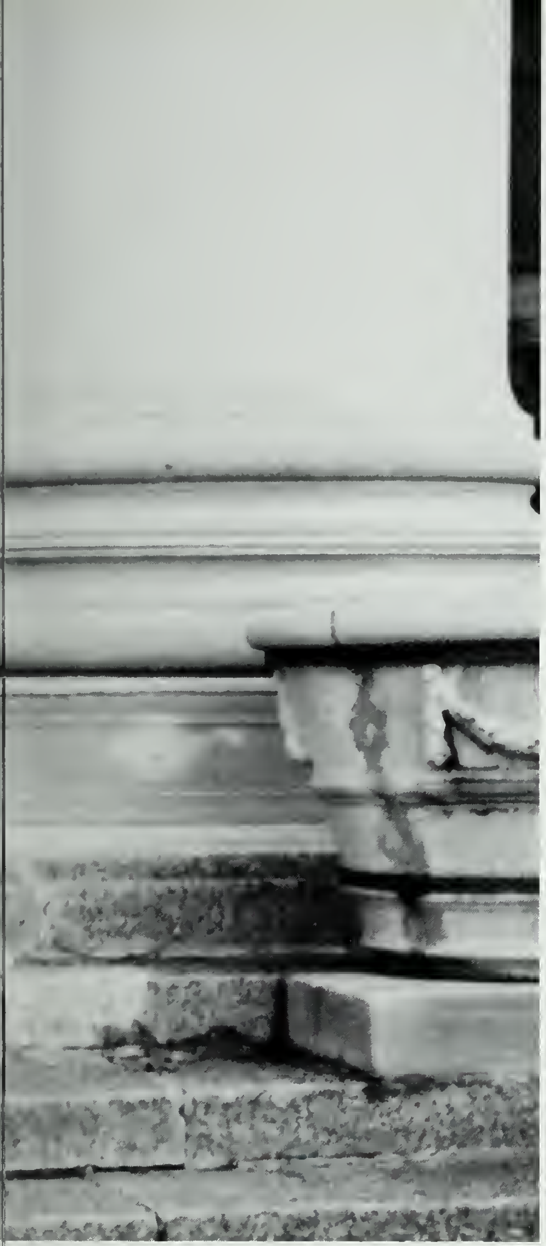
Spare Times?!

Two Students take a little break to chat before heading off to class.

Books, papers, classes and problem sets! HELP! We need a break! Hmm, what can Barnard students do when there is only a limited amount of time?

Why not stop by New World Coffee, to relax a bit?



Yeh, exercise is a great idea; both a physical and also a mental workout!

Talking on the phone is the best way to relax and catch up with friends.

Amity Taylor takes some time to check what's new in the Barnard Bulletin.

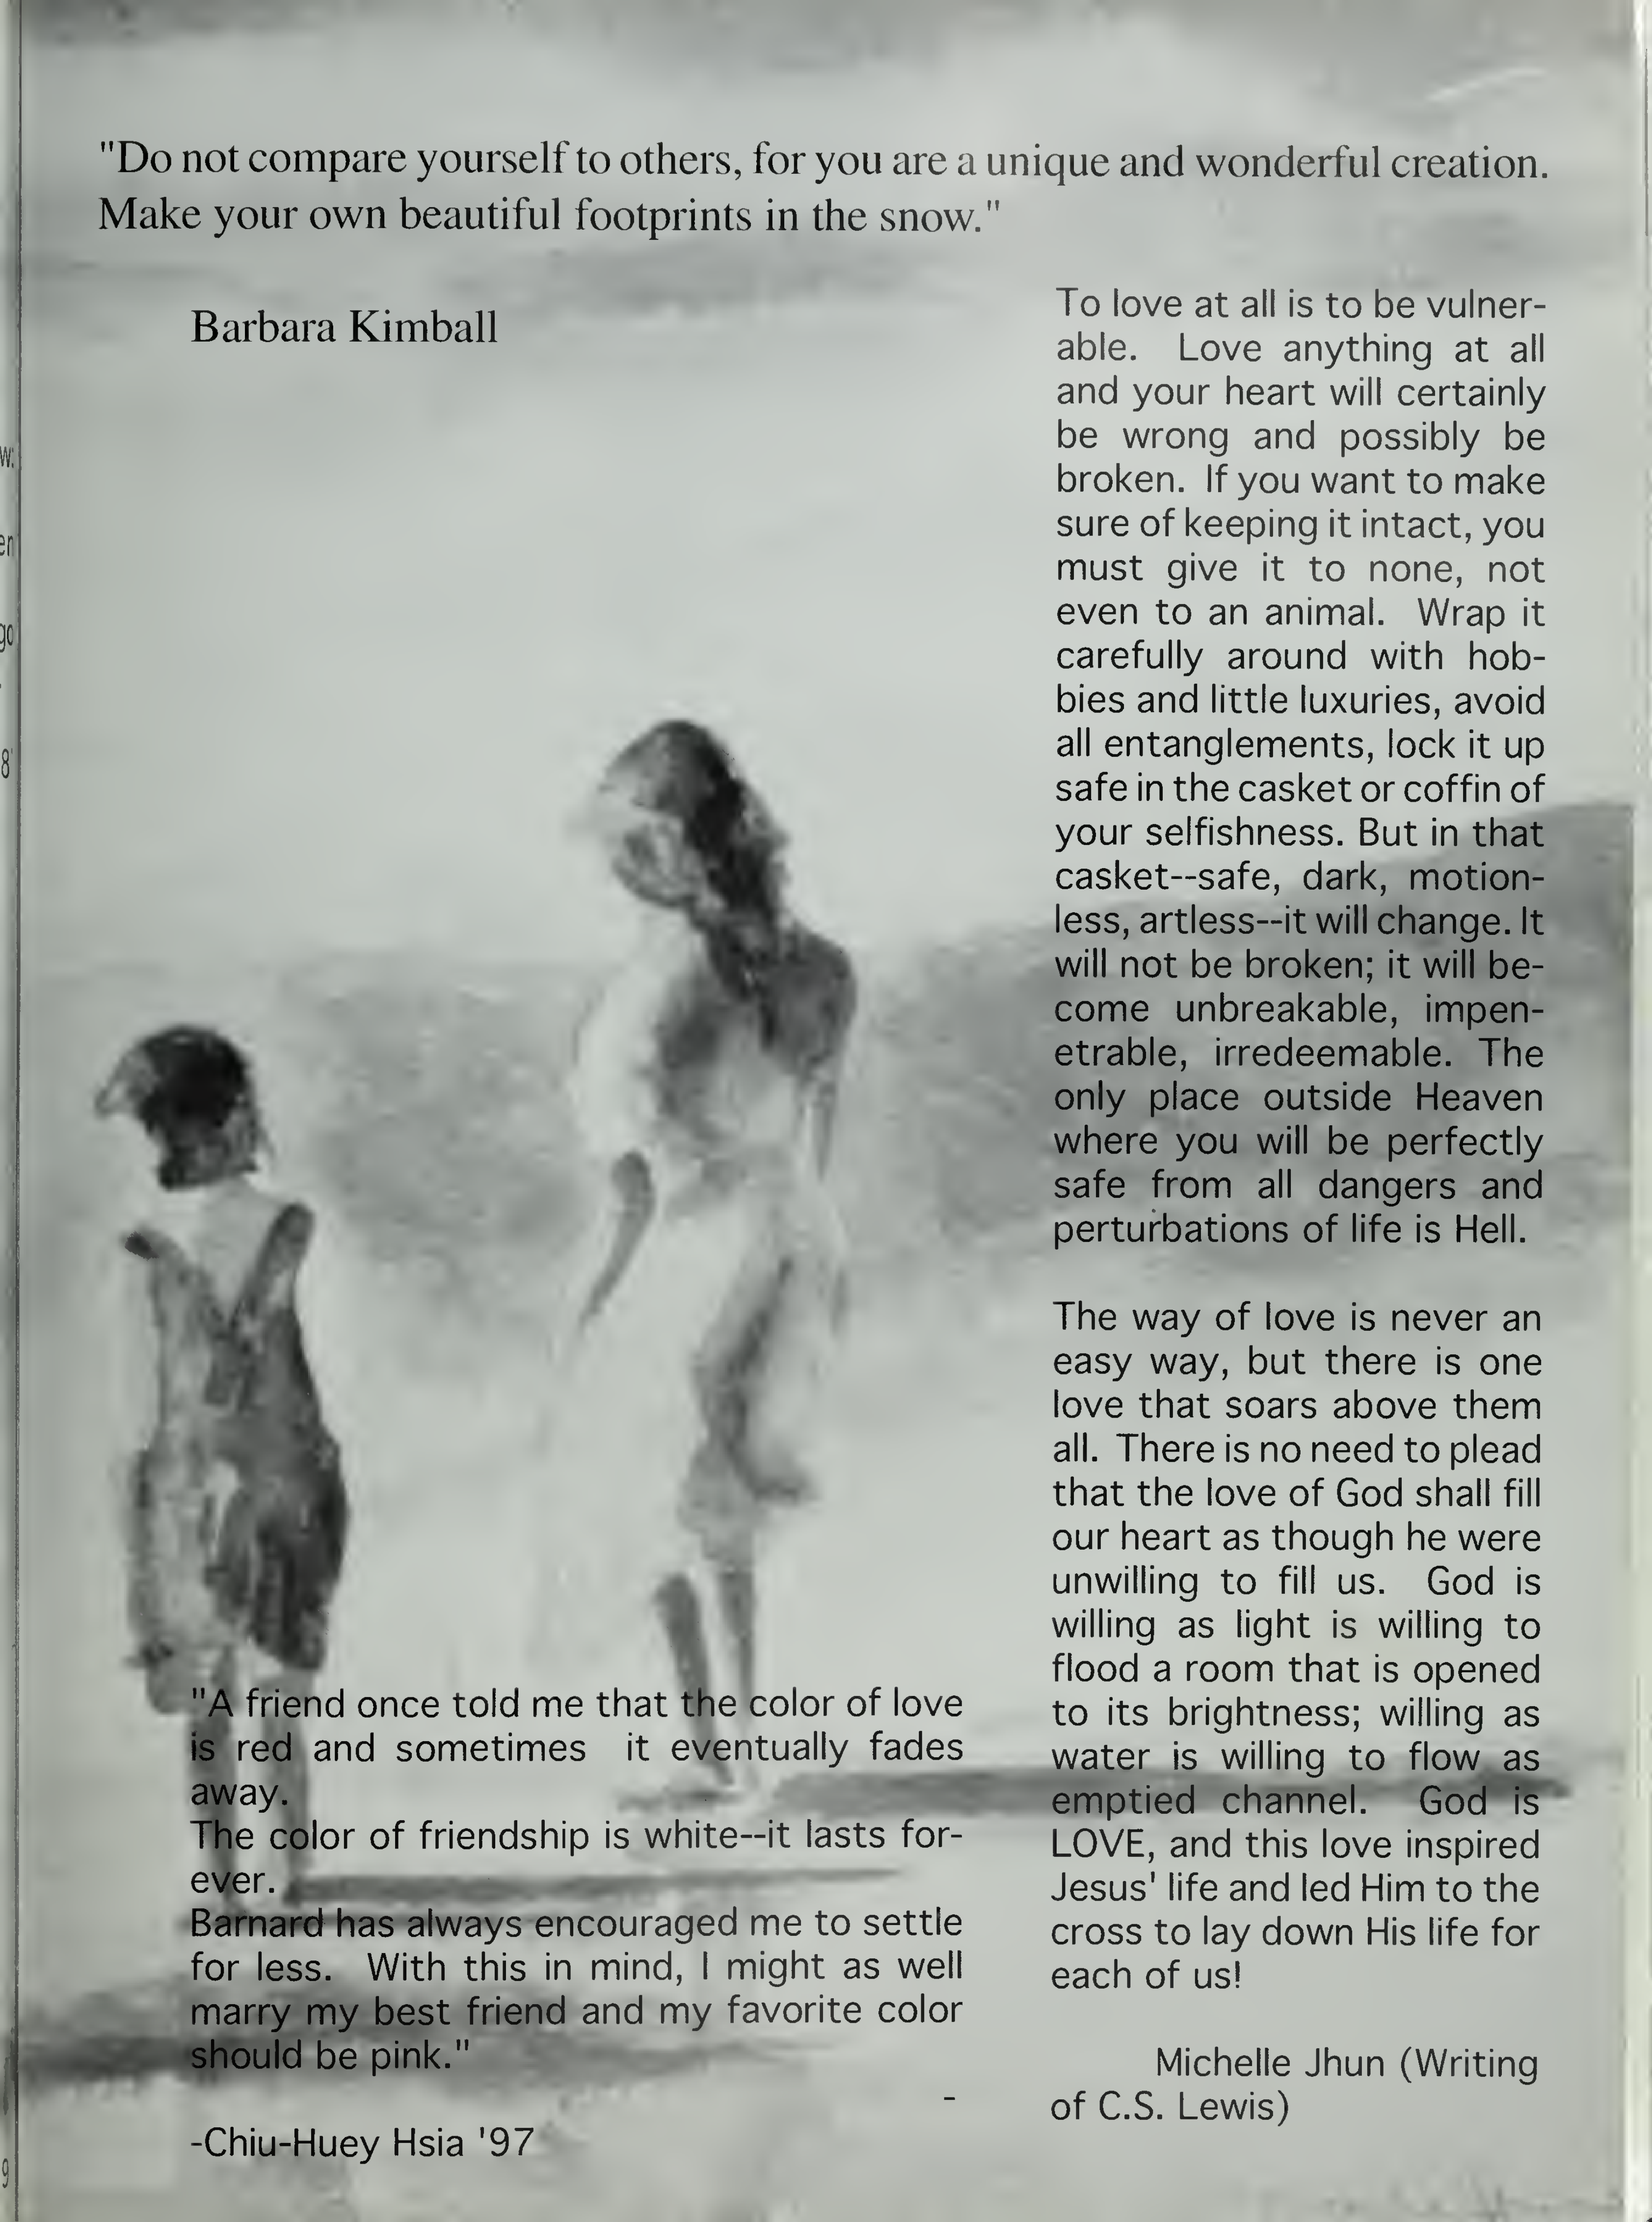
A Plan for the improvement of English Spelling

-SUBMITTED BY DAPHE BAZILE

For example, in Year 1 that useless letter "c" would be dropped to be replased either by "k" or "s", and likewise "x" would no longer be part of the alphabet. The only kase in which "c" would be retained would be the "ch" formation, which will be dealt with later. Year 2 might reform "w" spelling, so that "which" and "one" would take some konsonant, while Year 3 might will abolish "y" replasing it with "i" and iear 4 might fiks the "g/j anomali wonse and for all.

Look
I can walk now
You've changed me
Who knew?
I loved this place
Without a doubt
But now I can run
I can do anything
I will make a difference
Just you wait
I'm leaving
Cheers ladies

Gina Kim 9



"Do not compare yourself to others, for you are a unique and wonderful creation. Make your own beautiful footprints in the snow."

Barbara Kimball

"A friend once told me that the color of love is red and sometimes it eventually fades away.
The color of friendship is white--it lasts forever.
Barnard has always encouraged me to settle for less. With this in mind, I might as well marry my best friend and my favorite color should be pink."

-Chiu-Huey Hsia '97

To love at all is to be vulnerable. Love anything at all and your heart will certainly be wrong and possibly be broken. If you want to make sure of keeping it intact, you must give it to none, not even to an animal. Wrap it carefully around with hobbies and little luxuries, avoid all entanglements, lock it up safe in the casket or coffin of your selfishness. But in that casket--safe, dark, motionless, artless--it will change. It will not be broken; it will become unbreakable, impenetrable, irredeemable. The only place outside Heaven where you will be perfectly safe from all dangers and perturbations of life is Hell.

The way of love is never an easy way, but there is one love that soars above them all. There is no need to plead that the love of God shall fill our heart as though he were unwilling to fill us. God is willing as light is willing to flood a room that is opened to its brightness; willing as water is willing to flow as emptied channel. God is LOVE, and this love inspired Jesus' life and led Him to the cross to lay down His life for each of us!

Michelle Jhun (Writing of C.S. Lewis)

The Barnard Experience

THE TOP 3 THINGS BARNARD STUDENTS THINK ABOUT MOST:

1) Schoolwork of course!
2) When is my next meal?
3) Am I gonna get a life?!

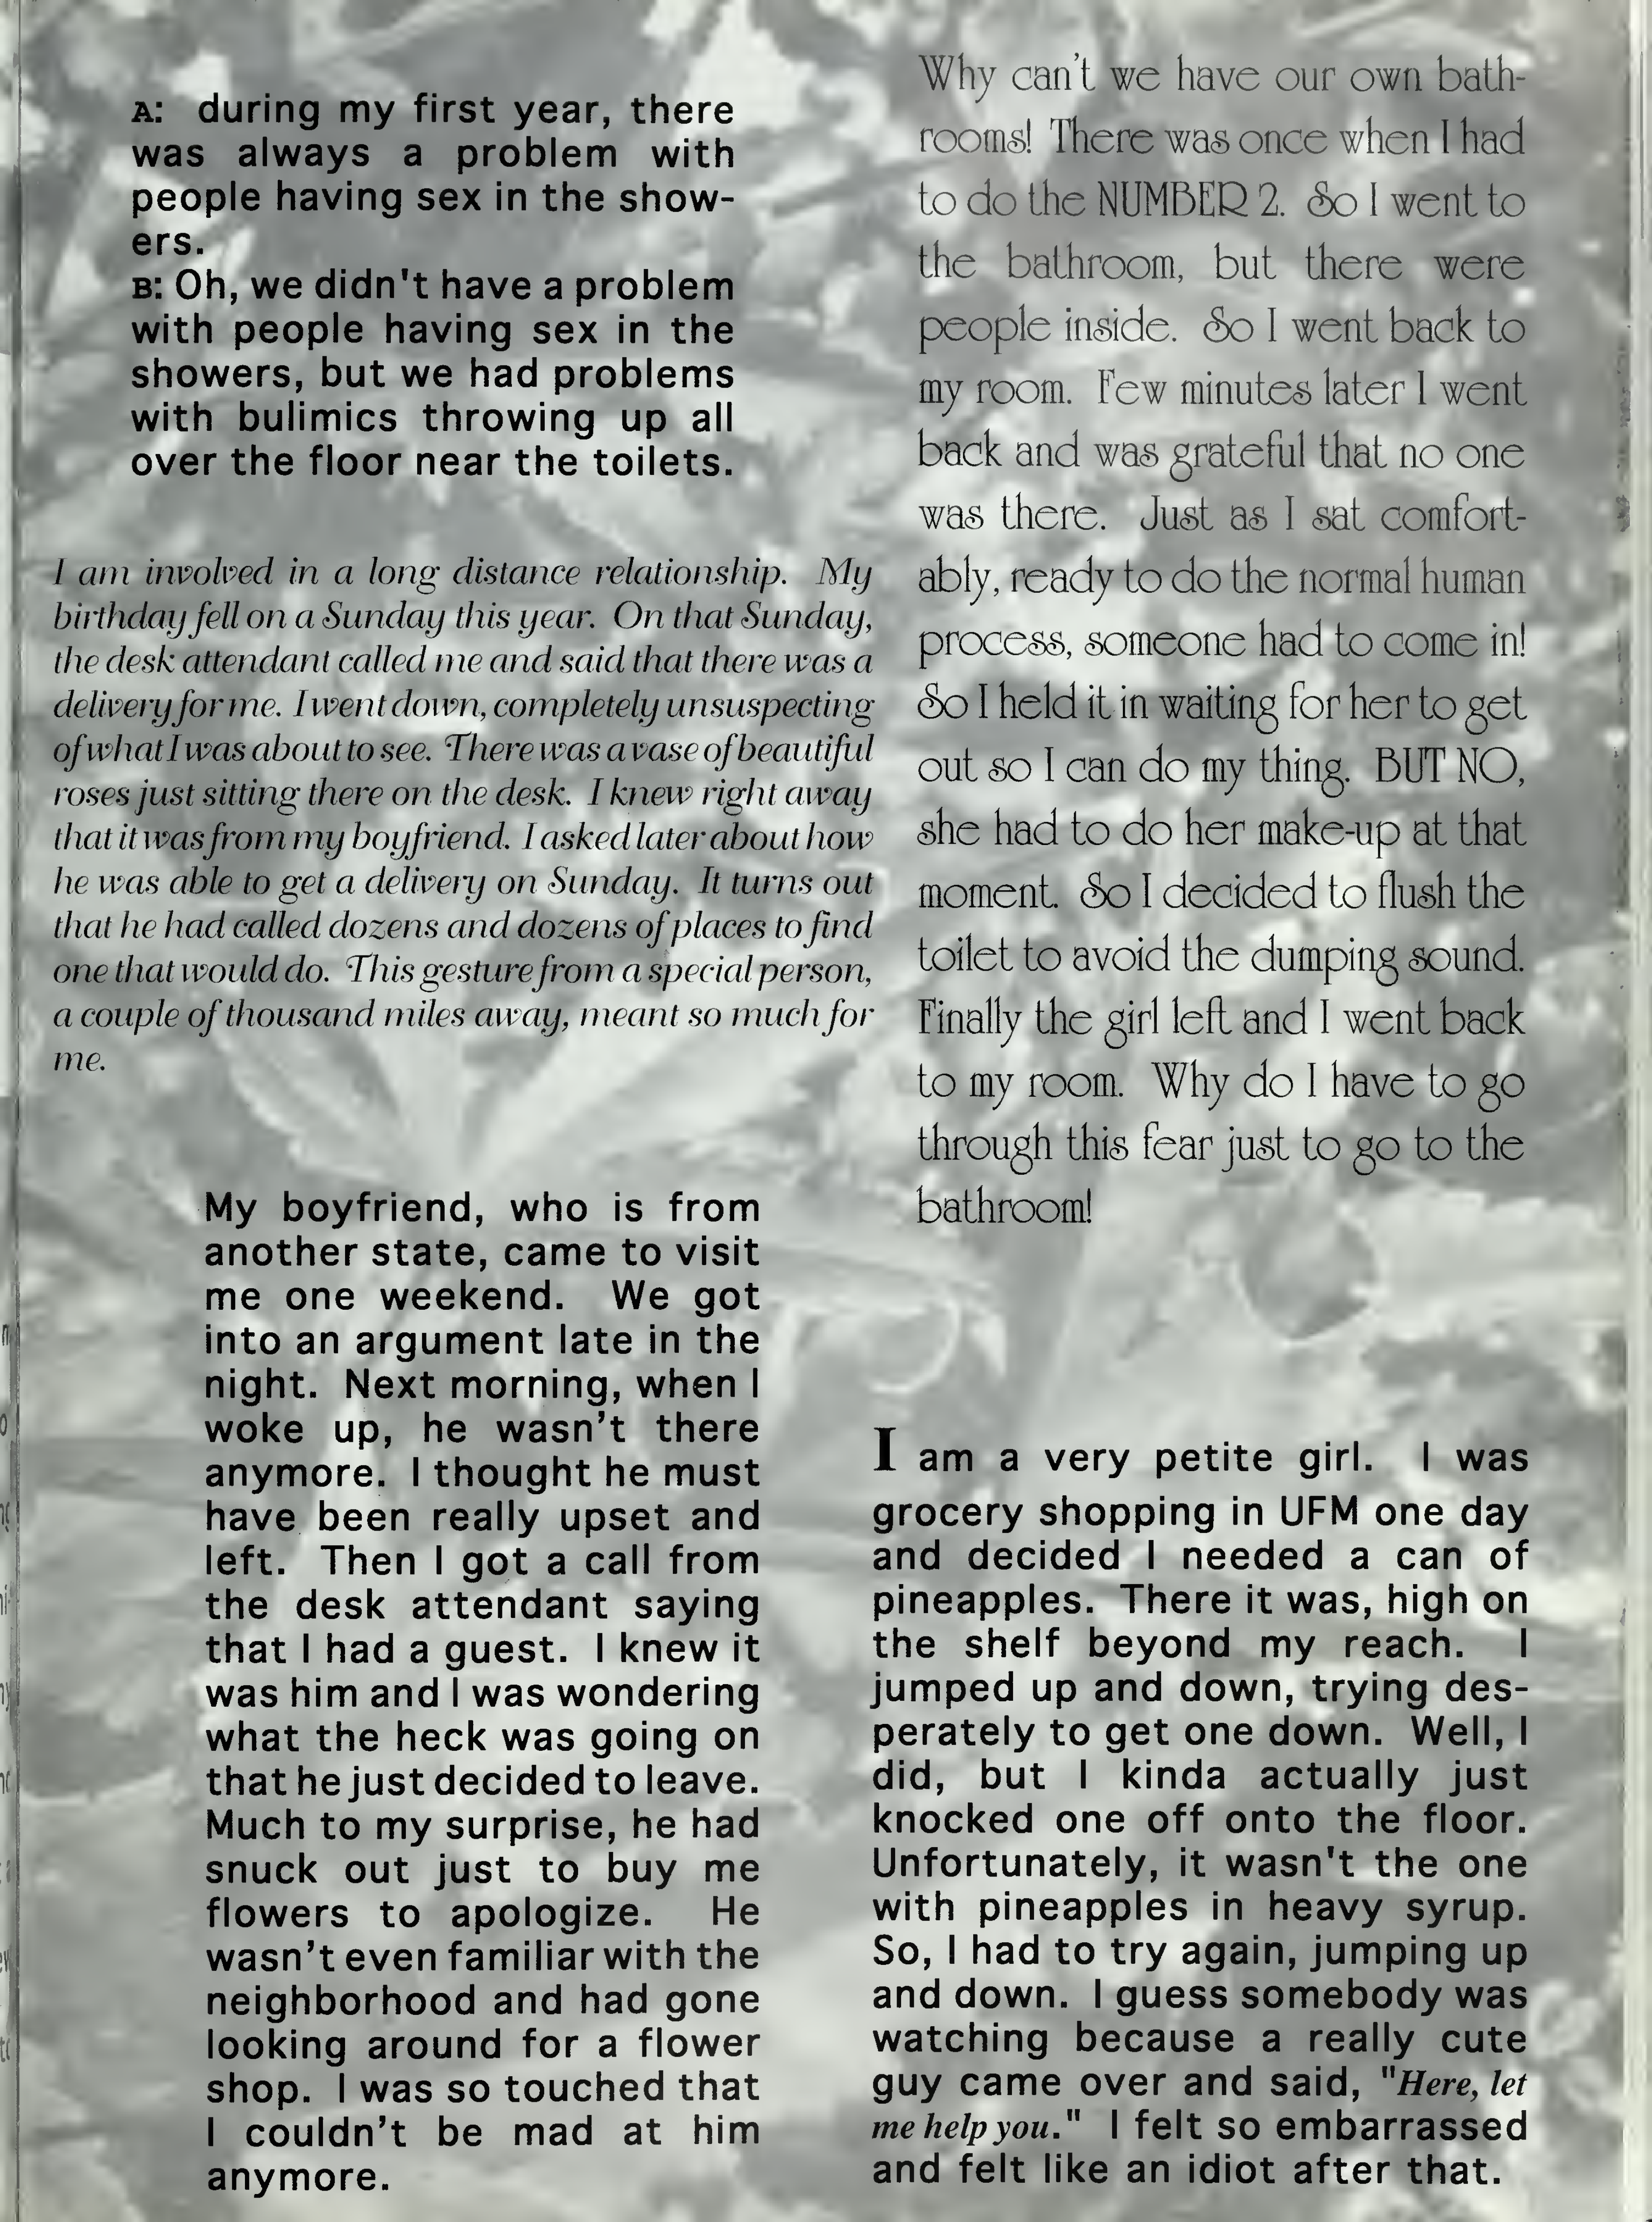
The walls of the Hewitt are pretty thin. So, if people were having sex, you can hear them pretty well. There was actually one time, when people right of me and left of me were having sex and I couldn't concentrate on studying for a test I had the next day.

I was sleeping one night and my roommate came in with a guy making a lot of noises. I didn't bother to get up and went back to sleep. I guess she was kinda drunk or something. Then, they started going at it right there on the bed. I didn't know what to do. Should I go and tell them to shut up or pretend to sleep? After a while, however, I just fell asleep.

I live in Elliot and I have two big windows that face the Altschul building. One Saturday evening, I just felt kinda stiff in my bones and bored, so I turned up the radio and started jumping up and down like crazy, shaking left and right, bouncing my head up and down. Right in the middle of this, I realized there was class right across the street in Altschul. What the heck were they doing in classes in Saturday morning!? I was so embarrassed, I went to pull down the shades. I hope nobody saw.

The people upstairs from us always made a lot of noise, jumping, running and moving their furniture. One day, my roomate couldn't stand it anymore, so she got a basketball and just threw it up on the ceiling to annoy them back.



A: during my first year, there was always a problem with people having sex in the showers.
B: Oh, we didn't have a problem with people having sex in the showers, but we had problems with bulimics throwing up all over the floor near the toilets.

I am involved in a long distance relationship. My birthday fell on a Sunday this year. On that Sunday, the desk attendant called me and said that there was a delivery for me. I went down, completely unsuspecting of what I was about to see. There was a vase of beautiful roses just sitting there on the desk. I knew right away that it was from my boyfriend. I asked later about how he was able to get a delivery on Sunday. It turns out that he had called dozens and dozens of places to find one that would do. This gesture from a special person, a couple of thousand miles away, meant so much for me.

My boyfriend, who is from another state, came to visit me one weekend. We got into an argument late in the night. Next morning, when I woke up, he wasn't there anymore. I thought he must have been really upset and left. Then I got a call from the desk attendant saying that I had a guest. I knew it was him and I was wondering what the heck was going on that he just decided to leave. Much to my surprise, he had snuck out just to buy me flowers to apologize. He wasn't even familiar with the neighborhood and had gone looking around for a flower shop. I was so touched that I couldn't be mad at him anymore.

Why can't we have our own bathrooms! There was once when I had to do the NUMBER 2. So I went to the bathroom, but there were people inside. So I went back to my room. Few minutes later I went back and was grateful that no one was there. Just as I sat comfortably, ready to do the normal human process, someone had to come in! So I held it in waiting for her to get out so I can do my thing. BUT NO, she had to do her make-up at that moment. So I decided to flush the toilet to avoid the dumping sound. Finally the girl left and I went back to my room. Why do I have to go through this fear just to go to the bathroom!

I am a very petite girl. I was grocery shopping in UFM one day and decided I needed a can of pineapples. There it was, high on the shelf beyond my reach. I jumped up and down, trying desperately to get one down. Well, I did, but I kinda actually just knocked one off onto the floor. Unfortunately, it wasn't the one with pineapples in heavy syrup. So, I had to try again, jumping up and down. I guess somebody was watching because a really cute guy came over and said, "Here, let me help you." I felt so embarrassed and felt like an idiot after that.

Thursday . . . . . Sunday

The West End

For a fun outing, Thursday nights at the West End; a place to drink, hang out and socialize.

Finally, it is Thursday!
That means the Weekend is coming soon. Students are anxious to drop their books and relax. What to do first? You could hang out with friends?! Better yet, you could also go downtown and chill out. Anything is better than all that hectic readings and writing papers.

On Friday night, Bonnie takes out time to have dinner with buddies.

On Saturday, relaxing and walking around Broadway is a great way to pacify the minds.

On Saturday is also a good day to go downtown and just.............. skate around!

Sunday is the day to return to reality. Better start hitting those books again...

City Buildings

The breadth and culture of New York City centers around the unique architecture and layout of many of the city's buildings. There are midtown's skyscrapers, luxury apartment buildings and hotels on the Upper West and upper East Side, and brownstones and walkups in the Village. Each area has its own special feeling when you walk the streets.

The New York City Skyline is one of the most memorable and fantastic views in the world. Spreading from the Statue of Liberty to the World Trade Center, the Skyline includes the famous Chrysler Building and the illustrious Empire State Building. One of the best views of the Skyline can be seen from the Brooklyn Bridge.

Museums

New York is home to some of the finest museums, exhibiting everything from dinosaur bones to "The Glory of Byzantium." Exhibits at famous museums are constantly changing, showcasing art from a variety of cultures. Among the most famous are the Museum of Natural History, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Guggenheim, and the Museum of Modern Art.

Times Square

Replete with big shiny billboards, lights and a Sony Television Monitor, Times Square is a wild place always filled with people and excitement. Benefitting from recent Urban Renewal Projects, Times Square now houses upscale stores and restaurants. Of course the theater, and the prospect of half price tickets from the TKTS booth entices both city-dwellers and tourists alike.

Last Words

Life

Life is strange in many ways.
We all have our good and bad days.
It's like a roller coaster - up, then down.
One day - a smile, the next day - a frown.

They're decisions to make each way you turn,
And as days progress, new things to learn.
Life is full of surprise and fears.
That is why you should enjoy these years.

Try to make dreams come true
'Cause what you do is up to you.
All you have to do is try,
Or regret the years you let slip by.

-- By Nicole Johnson

College

We are all like birds
That must fly away one day
To find their own nests to build.
This is the time for all of us
To find ourselves in a big world
That has lost all warm whispers
Of guided directions.

I don't want to
Let all my birds go
To leave their old mama
All by herself.
But as I cry wet pillow dreams
I know that I've got to let go
All my starlings
And only hold on
To the sweet times
We had together

Dear Members of the Senior Class,

The Mortarboard has asked me to write a letter introducing the commencement section of the yearbook. As I sit here at my keyboard twiddling my thumbs, I find it very difficult to get a lead into this section. For me, graduation seems like such a far off, surreal event that it is hard to extrapolate on the subject. For the last semester, all that people seem to be asking me about is what I am going to do after I graduate. If one more person asks me this, I am going to scream. Most of my friends are in a whirlwind of job interviews and filling out grad. school applications. I have decided that I would like to take some time off before pursuing my future career or field of study. Like a number of my peers, I need a break! I don't think that there is anything wrong with taking some time off for yourself. Many friends don't understand why I am not more concerned with my future. It's not that I am unconcerned, it is just that I'm not ready to commit. I remember when I was first applying to colleges. I thought that by going to the right school and by studying in a particular field, my life would be determined. Now, as graduation creeps up on me, I know that this is untrue and that I can do anything. Yikes!

One thing that I can say is that I definitely chose the right school. The most wonderful thing about Barnard for me has been meeting such interesting and intelligent women. I have come to the conclusion that there is no one type of student that comes to Barnard. The stereotype of the student clad in black with multiple piercings and fluorescent colored hair simply does not hold true. Certainly there are students with these particular physical attributes. However, I would say that the typical Barnard student comes in many different packages and is defined by her desire for knowledge, open-mindedness, intelligence, and her tremendous achievements.

I am confident that every women graduating this year is ready and able to conquer the world. Keep in mind that no matter what you do with your life, as long as you are happy with yourself and what you are doing, you are a success. Don't conform to anyone's ideas of what they think you should be. Follow your dreams and live life as an exclamation, not an explanation!

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Lawrence

Presentation of Degree Candidates

Barnard College
May 20, 1997
Lehman Lawn

Seniors prepared for the Processional in the Barnard Gym. As they walked out they were greeted by the applause of their former professors who were lined up in the hallway. They proceeded into the sushine to the tune of Pomp and Circumstance provided by the New Amsterdam Brass Ensemble. Before the presentation of degree candidates, the 1997 Bryson Award was given to Sophie Fels. Sarah Brady, Merce Cunningham, Charlayne Hunter-Gault, and Ruth Prawer Jhabvala were presented with the Barnard Medal of Distinction. Taryn Roeder delivered the academic reflections for the senior class. The commencement speaker was Anna Quindlen, BC '74, winner of the 1992 Pulitzer Prize for Commentary, who reminded students of how good life really is.

Conferring of Degrees

Columbia University
May 21, 1997
Low Library Steps

Barnard seniors stopped traffic as they marched from Barnard gates to the gates of Earl Hall. Over 3,000 more degree candidates of Columbia Unversity joined them, sitting in the vicinity of Low Library and College Walk. The President of the University, George Rupp, gave the commencement address. Several awards and recognitions were given before the conferring of degree candidates. The University medal for Excellence was presented to Joseph A. Greenway Jr., a United States Judge. When it came time for the conferring of degrees of Barnard College's candidates, seniors stood on their chairs as President Judith Shapiro approached the podium. Confetti was thrown with absolute jubilation as ceremonies came to a close.

Office of the President

Dear Class of 1997,

Congratulations on reaching one of the most important milestones of your lives. You have stepped into your new position as Barnard Seniors with grace and determination, and have proven to all of us what a remarkably talented, motivated and caring group of women you are. I have enjoyed getting to know you over the past years and watching you develop interests in the classroom and laboratory, community programs and internships, as well as in athletics, the arts, dance and theater. As you prepare to leave Barnard, you will find that you are quite ready to meet the many exciting challenges that lie ahead.

Your Barnard education, in its breadth and depth, has provided you with the intellectual and cultural capital that you will draw upon for the rest of your lives At the same time, it has prepared you for productive work in a society whose future directions cannot always be predicted. So, when you hear stories about shifting job markets, you can be assured that as Barnard graduates you will be capable of adapting to whatever is out there. Your Barnard education has strengthened your ability to think, to analyze and synthesize, to move with mental agility from task to task, project to project. It has more than prepared you to face the future with confidence.

As Barnard graduates you will continue to uphold Barnard's reputation as a place where women come because they know that they can and will make a difference in the world. You will join ranks with a distinguished group of Barnard alumnae who are making their mark in every field, and who will become your friends and mentors along the way.

So, as you get ready to face the new demands and responsibilities of your futures, remember to confront each new challenge with the same passionate intellect and spirit you demonstrated at Barnard. We hope that you will come back soon and often to share all of your stories and accomplishments with us. Remember, too, that when you can't make it back in person, you can always keep in touch by visiting Barnard's web-site from whatever region of the world you happen to be living in--from Brooklyn to Bhutan.

With all best wishes now and in the future,

Sincerely,

Judith Shapiro

RESULTS

The Columbia women's varsity archery team competed face to face with the Baruch women's team, a part ot the Telecommunications Tournament, held every first week of the month, winning all five tournaments. Zita Peterlin, co-captain of the Columbia women's archery team, ranked at the top of the T/C Tournament.

The Columbia women's archery team also defended their title at the N.Y. State College Championship held on Feb. 8, 1997. There were other tournaments, such as the Mid-Atlantic Championship and the Atlantic City Classic, where the archery team often placed second or third. The National Collegiate Outdoor Championship is where the Columbia women's archery team left its mark on the national level as the season came to an end.

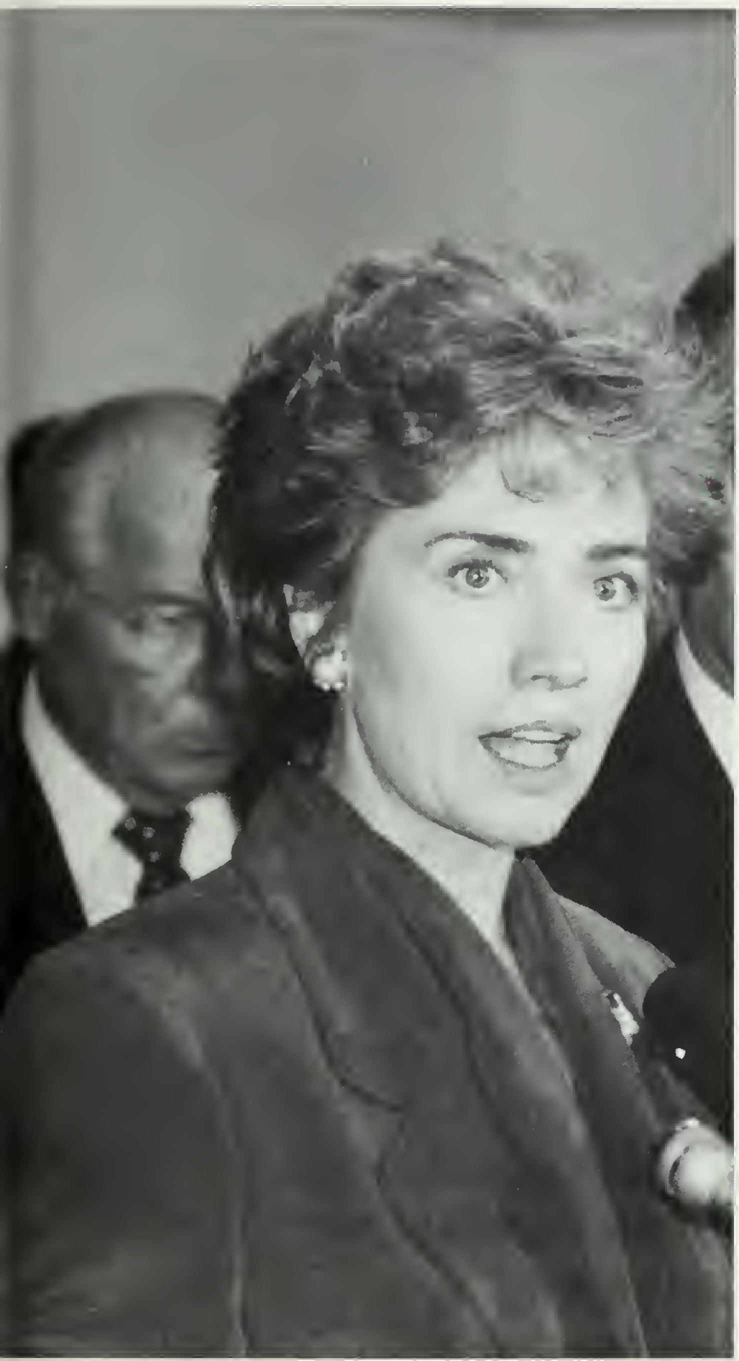
First Year
1993 - 1994

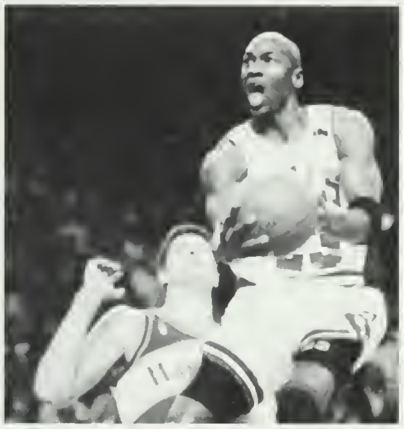
Accused of being the mastermind behind th plot to blow up the World Trade Center, Sheik Omar Abdel Rahman is escorted by federal agents after being charged in August 25, 1993.

On January 17, 1994, an earthquake of 6.6 magnitude struck Southern California, claiming 61 lives and leaving $30 billion in damages.

Flanked by forklifts carrying reams of government rules and regulations, President Clinton and Vice President Gore outlined plans to cut, consolidate and res[illegible] the federal bureaucracy.



First Lady Hillary RodhamClinton surprised America when she assumed the role of "point man" on health care for her husband, the president.



Wishing to pursue different careers, Michael Jordan announced on October 6, 1993 that he would retire from basketball.

When Boris Yeltsin disbanded the Societ Union legislature on September 21, 1993, Vice President Rutskoi and others tried to wrest power from Yeltsin in an attempted coup.

On September 13, 1993, two old enemies, Yasser Arafat and Yitzhak Rabin, shook hands together as peacemakers.

Across the Northeast, the midwest and large parts of the South, extreme cold of January 1994 brought blizards that dumped enough snow to paralyze many states.

Sophomore Year 1994 -1995

In Rwanda, civil war between the Hutsus and the Tutsis led to migration, disease and famine, effectively destroying unity in country.

Michael Jackson's marriage to Lisa Marie Presley, Elvis' only daughter, shocked the American public.

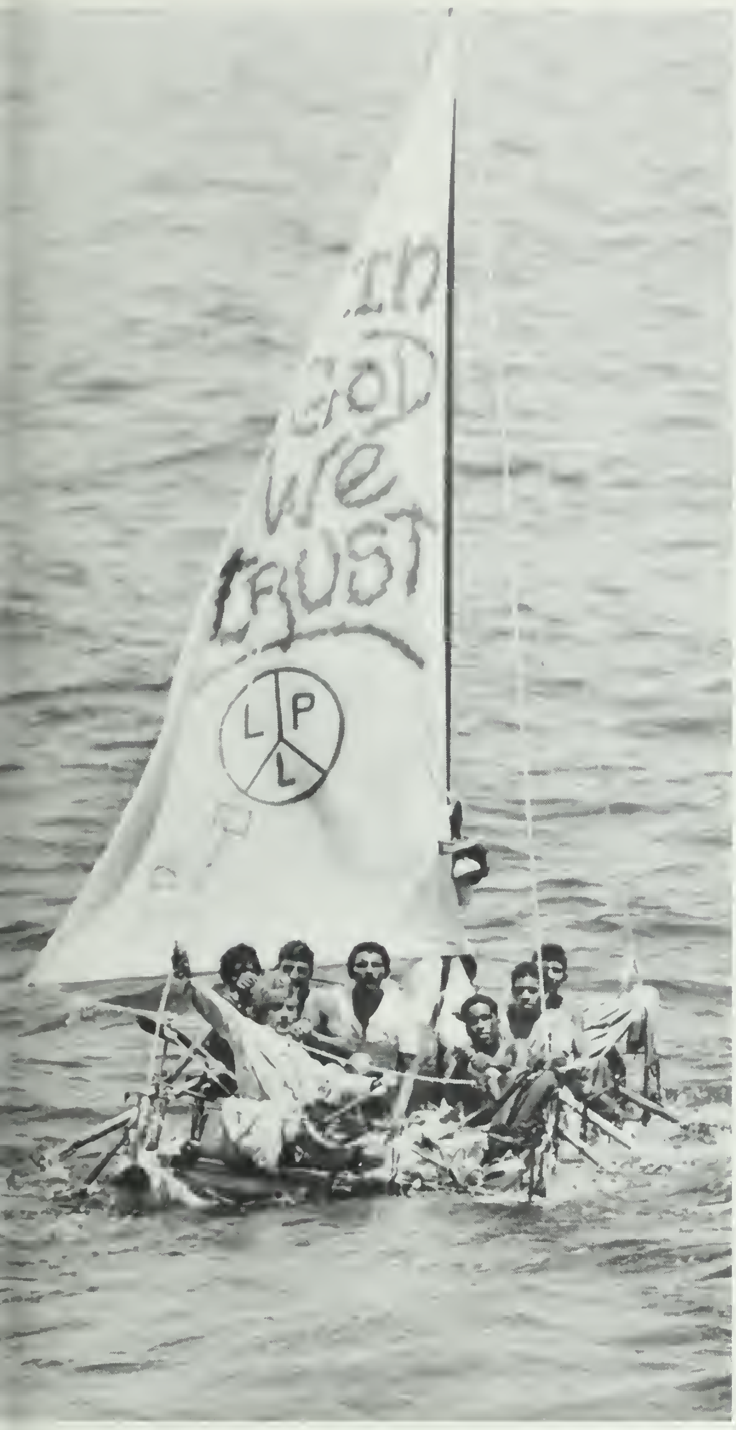
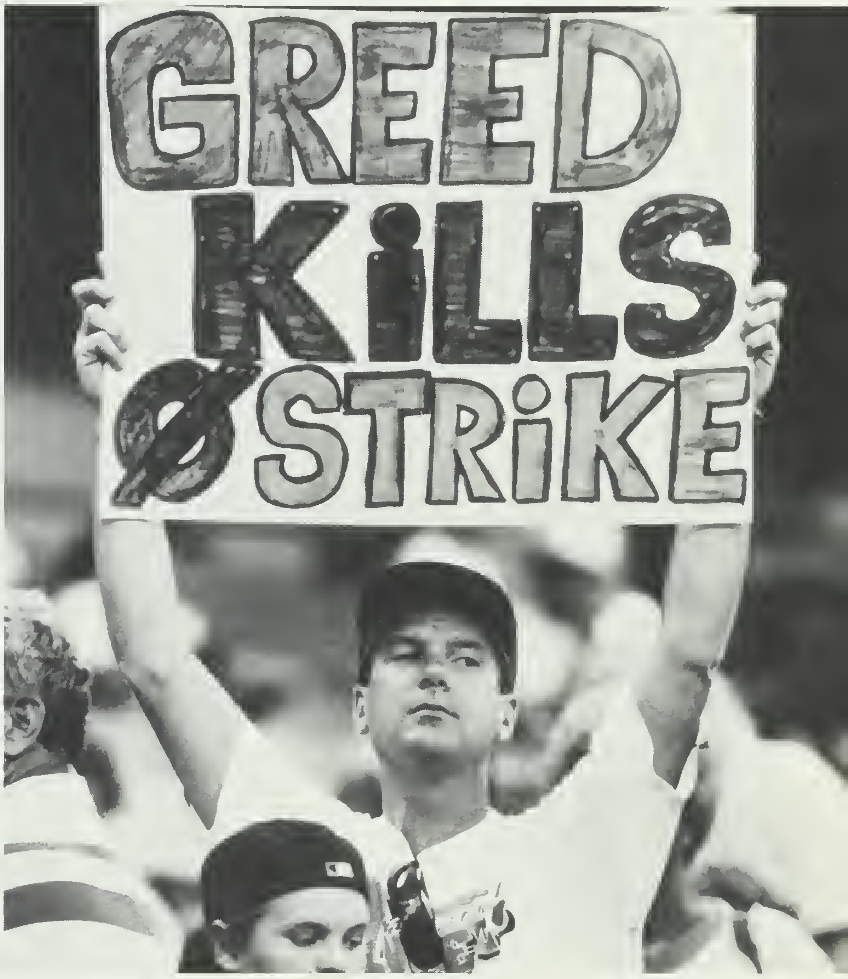
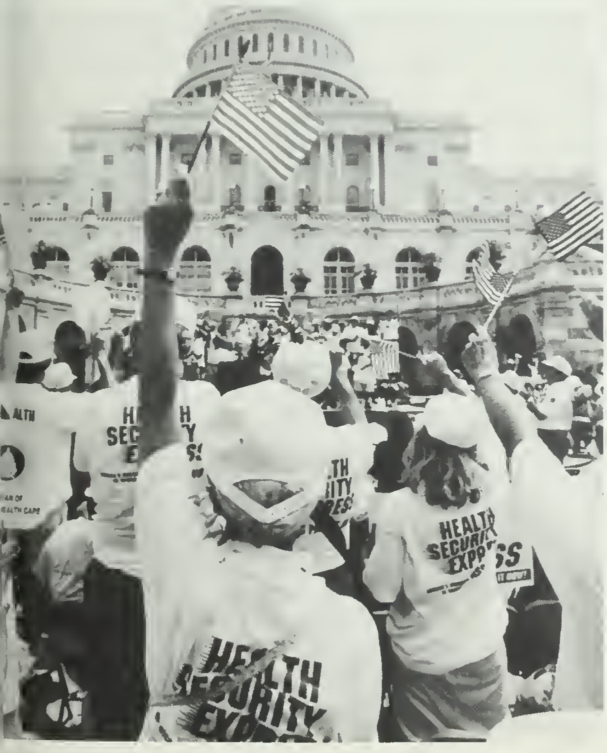
Brazil defeated Italy in the 1994 World Cup, played here in the United States.



They were Cuba's boat people -- tens of thousands of people desperate to come to the United States to escape the poverty and hunger of their increasingly isolated island.

The 1994 Baseball season ended not with a home run or a strikeout, but with a conference call and a fax. On the 34th day of the major league players strike, the team owners canceled the rest of the season, including the playoffs and the World series.





If the United States truly had a health care crisis in 1994, you couldn't have proved it by Congress. Despite the exhortations of President Clinton and the First Lady, the year ended without significant health insurance reform.

Woodstock '94 looked a lot like the original 1969 rock festival. People paid $135 each for tickets -- advanced sale. About 350,000 people attended.

Junior Year
1995 - 1996

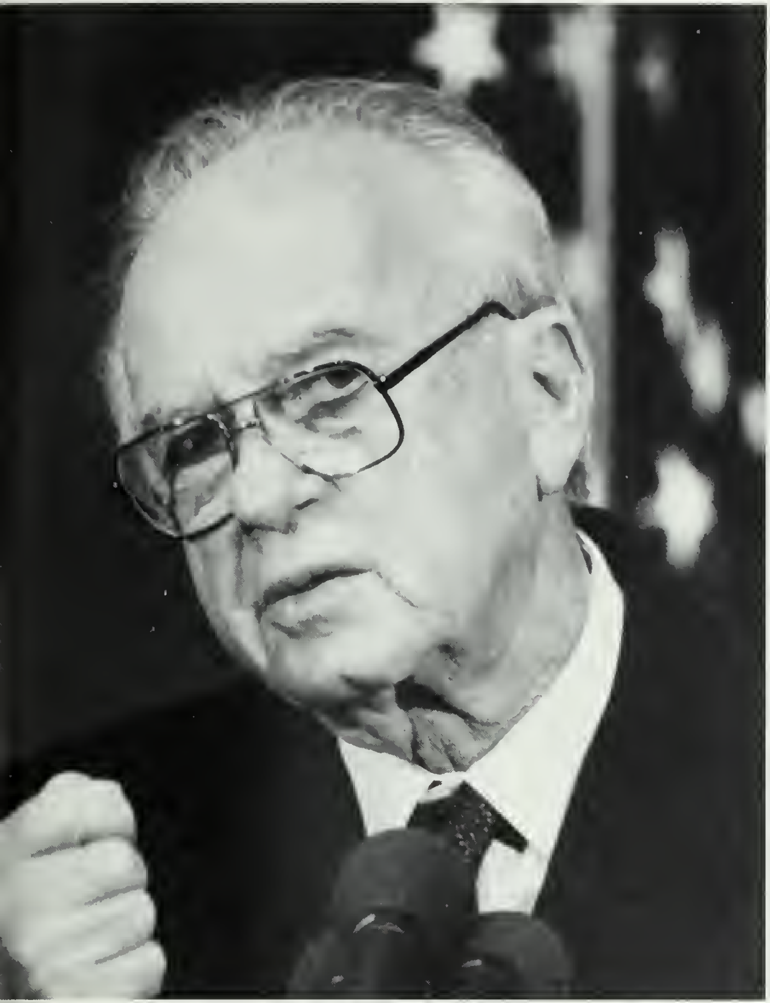
Newt Gingrich helped orchestrate the "Contract with America" as the GOP's national agenda. His televised speech was the first to receive such coverage.

Returning from a two year hiatus after being stabbed in the back by a deranged fan in Germany, Monica Seles competed in the US Open.

On October 16, 1995, hundreds of thousands of African American men converged on the nation's capital for the first ever Million Man March.

Jerry Garcia, co-founder of rock music's the Grateful Dead passed away on August 9, 1995.

In May 1995, NATO planes attacked Serb ammunition depots in the former Yugoslavia.



Prime Minister Yizhak Rabin was assassinated on November 4, 1995, by an Israeli right-winger.

On September 6, 1995, Cal Ripken Jr. surpassed Lou Gehrig's 2,130 consecutive games record.

"Always trust yourself and your own feeling...
Allow your judgements their own silent, undisturbed development, which, like all progress, must come from deep within and cannot be forc or hastened...To let each impression and each embryo of a feeling come t completion, entirely in itself, in the dark, in the unsayable, the unconscious, beyond the reach of one's own understanding, and with deep humility and patience to wait for the hour
when a new clarity is born:
this alone is what it means to live as an artist..."

As a baby you always attracted the attention of everyone with your warm smile; as a toddler, by performing daring acts at the playground and I can continue on and on... The years went by ever so quickly and now you are an incredibly talented young lady who brings peace and comfort to everyone around you with your actions and the same warm smile.

Love and Good Luck,

NUY & NICOLE

Nicole, ma missy, ma honey-dahling-sweets! I won't say more than I love you a thousand times, that we threw a party, babbled dissolution theories, cuddled a camera, saw lulus 'n' lolitas, threw chocolate and that mostly we were there.

sweet lulu, what can i say? we have so many memories for sucha short time. we've had so many wonderful conversations and wonderful times. it's hard to believe that it was all due to some coincidence. you're amazing doll face, and don't you forget it. i'll love and think of you always, lolita.

My four years at Barnard could not have been any better - thank you Mom and Da for all it took to get me here, to my frien whom I adore, and to my professors who have pushed me farther than I thought I could go.

Love,

Annika Dronge

The Associate Alumnae of Barnard College Welcomes the Class of1997

Upon graduating from Barnard you join more than 26,000 women as a lifetime member of the Associate Alumnae of Barnard College (AABC). Worldwide alumnae groups will invite you to special events so that your connection to Barnard will grow in the coming years. You can network to help your career; audit courses at Barnard; use Barnard's physical education facilities and Columbia University libraries; get involved as an alumnae volunteer, or apply for a graduate studies fellowship. By contacting the Office of Alumnae Affairs, you can find your classmates. The Office of Career Development will help you make career contacts. Through the pages of Barnard, the alumnae quarterly, you'll always know what your classmates are doing. We look forward to working with you in the years ahead; please keep in touch.

Letter From the Editor

I sit here typing this letter rather frustrated. I don't know what to say that has not been said already. I don't know how to sound sentimental without sounding too corny... but here it goes anyway. I still remember the first time I came to Barnard with my father in October of 1992. I remember climbing those subway stairs at 116th Street and immediately falling in love with the area (not to mention the prospect of living in New York City). My memories of Barnard extend from that day until today, May 27,1997. Today, I hand in the last pages of the yearbook to be sent to the plant, which is a significant feat in itself. These pages include pictures of our graduation. This year the Mortarboard came out later because I wanted commencement to be included. Those days have to be two of the best days of my life. However, it did not hit me that I would be leaving Barnard until the night after the Columbia commencement at the West End. I made my rounds through the bar saying good-bye to friends and colleagues. I was on my way out the door when I saw someone who I wished to keep in touch with. As we exchanged phone numbers, she looked at me and said, "Michelle, do you realize you were the first person I met here?" Tears started rolling down my face. I gave her a hug and replied, "Well then, I guess we better keep in touch." The friends I made here I know will last a life time. There are too many people to thank and I fear forgetting someone -- old friends from back home, new friends from here and, of course, my family. You all know who you are. Thank you for all the love and support, especially for this year with everything that happened. I also wish to convey my thanks to the hard working women who helped me put this book together. I hope the yearbook was worth the wait. Good Luck and Best Wishes!
